

Abstract of the Disclosure

In a gas and steam power plant for water desalination, a heat exchanger surface is arranged in the region of the cold end of a heat recovery boiler. This surface is provided for preheating the water to be desalinated.